Store Building To Be Remodeled

City Sells Record Number Of Auto Licenses This Year

N. B. Cameron, owner, was granted a permit to remodel the Ben Franklin Store building. The front will be porcelain on steel over brick and an addition at the rear will be constructed of concrete blocks. It was necessary to make written application application, describing the remodeling, because the building is inside the fire zone.

Report showed the sale of 692 city licenses for motor vehicles for the current year. This is the greatest number sold in any one year, it was said.

An ordinance was passed Monday night by the council requiring open wells, cisterns and similar openings to be covered securely and fixing a penalty for violation of the ordinance. The ordinance as a whole appears elsewhere in this issue. The passage of this rule arose from the recent drowning of Kathy Fiscus in an old well in California.

Easter Seal Fund Reaches $462.90

Slightly More Than Half $850 Goal Is Collected

With some returns still to be made from county schools and other organizations, money collected in the Easter Seal campaign for crippled children is $462.90, Dr. Robert W. Gordon, chairman, said Tuesday.

Of this amount, $70.15 was made by the sale of lilies in Princeton Saturday by girls of the Y-Teen club, Butler High School, under the direction of Mrs. J. L. Walker.

Pupils at Eastside School contributed $35.05. Mrs. Paul Cunningham was in charge of collections there.

The goal this year was $850, slightly more than half of this being collected, Dr. Gordon said.

"I want to thank the Y-Teen girls, Mrs. Walker, and Mrs. Cunningham for their help," the chairman said.

"We are sorry we could not get our goal this year, but every cent contributed is appreciated and will mean a great deal to the crippled children of the State," Dr. Gordon concluded.

Ten Percent Of Cancer Fund Raised Remains Here

Ten percent of the money raised in Caldwell county during the fund campaign of the American Cancer Society will remain in the county, Mrs. F. K. Wylie, chairman said.

This money is used to pay transportation of patients to clinics and hospitals and to help those in the county who are unable to buy medicines or other needed medical supplies, Mrs. Wylie said.

Hospital and doctors bills are paid from the portion which goes to the State organization, Mrs. Wylie said.

"If we kept every cent of the money for our county, and had to pay the hospital and medical expenses of the patients in the county who need assistance, the $1000 we hope to collect would not begin to do the job," Mrs. Wylie said.

The greatest percent of the money goes to the State fund and part to the national organization. Each gift of $100 is put in the Memorial Fund for cancer research.

A short on the cancer campaign will be shown at the Capitol Theater Sunday and Monday, Mrs. Wylie said.

Low Hospital Bids Approved By Public Health Service

Actual Construction Expected To Start By Middle Of May Or First Of June

Approval of low bids for construction of the Caldwell County War Memorial Hospital and authorization to proceed immediately with drawing contracts with low bidders were received this week by County Judge Clyde Wood from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Contracts are being drawn now and actual construction will start about the middle of May or the first of June, Chairman Thomas J. Simmons said. Approval of the application for an emergency loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is expected by the end of this month, he added. Final letting of contracts will be made on receipt of this approval.

The loan requested is $50,000 but only that part of the amount actually needed will be borrowed, Mr. Simmons said. He added the money will not be borrowed until it is needed in the construction work.

"This money is being borrowed from RFC only until an additional bond issue can be voted here," Mr. Simmons said.

Estimated cost of the hospital is $403,328, of which $130,109 will be supplied by the federal government. About $34,000 will be available from the State, contingent on a Court of Appeals ruling on a suit now before it as to whether State aid may be given to nonprofit hospitals administered by boards of Churchmen.

Federal funds will not be available until the hospital is one-third complete, Mr. Simmons said.

"We are urging the payment of pledges as rapidly as possible," Mr. Simmons said. "They are to be paid to Mrs. Leona Averdick, in the circuit clerk's office. Under the government plan of financing, it is imperative that unpaid pledges be collected immediately."

Work on the sewer line to the hospital site was started Monday under the supervision of Sam McConnell, superintendent of public works.

Butler Pupils Help Index Books At Coon Library

Quartet To Sing

The quartet from Duvall's Chapel will present a song service at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, April 24, at Mt. Olivet General Baptist Church, the Rev. O. L. Duncan, pastor, has announced.

Ten Percent Of Cancer Fund Raised Remains Here

"More people are dying of cancer than ever before," Dr. W. L. Cash, county health officer, said this week.

The most recent estimate of the U. S. Bureau of Vital Statistics shows that approximately 191,200 Americans died of cancer in 1947, he said. Final figures are not available until about 18 months after the end of the year, so complete 1947 figures will not be known until late Spring, he added.

Kentucky, Mrs. Wylie said, has the only cancer mobile unit in the world. It has the only cancer clinic approved by the American College of Surgeons in a Negro hospital, the only cancer clinic approved by ACS in a mental institution and the only annual course of cancer education for teachers and nurses.

Kentucky was the first State to have every county organized for cancer control work, the first to have a cancer Symposium for the medical profession and the first to have a Negro organization fully organized.

Members of ACS often say, "Kentucky leads in two things—basketball and cancer control."

Fee System Is Costly Folly

As is apparent all over Kentucky now to many literate citizens, the Reorganization Act of 1936 could not accomplish for many archaic Kentucky institutions what it undoubtedly did for the outmoded methods up to then in vogue in operating the State's business in a lax and costly manner.

The present movement, to be voted upon at next general election, which seeks as its goal the calling of a Constitutional Convention to revise Kentucky's worn out Constitution should, on the face of abundant evidence, received the overwhelming support of every adult who is in the least informed.

One of the worst relics of another age with which we as a people have to contend is the fee system of paying public officials.

Judge Ira D. Smith, of Hopkinsville, an able jurist of long experience, made the recommendation recently to the Constitution Review Commission at Frankfort that commonwealth's attorneys, county attorneys and city attorneys, who now depend upon a percentage of their fees for remuneration, be paid straight salaries. Judge Smith is right about this, for, if the fee system of paying public officials ever was justified, it was in the State's early days before the volume of business they transacted was anything like so large as it is today.

The Hopkinsville circuit judge did not go into reasons why he knows the fee system to be faulty, or at any rate, his reasons were not given publicity in dispatches of the Associated Press; but to persons familiar with courthouse procedure today, they are glaringly evident.

He could have said that, since circuit court sessions in some of our counties are so devoid of profit for commonwealth's attorneys and county attorneys, felonies are often reduced to misdemeanors in order that fines can be assessed, thus providing pay for the office holders.

It is a well known fact that a Negro who steals a few chickens is much more likely to get a prison sentence in Kentucky courts than is the criminal, often habitual, who robs a store or assaults a fellow man.

The fee system makes it possible . . . more, it puts the business right up to the office holding lawyers, to make money by tending to lean toward the side of crime; hence law abiding citizens summoned to serve on juries for the first time often are shocked by what they consider to be gross miscarriages of justice.

Judge Smith also recommended that county judges be required to be practicing attorneys in good standing; and with this we are heartily in agreement. County judges also should be paid on a straight salary basis and the salary should be sufficiently large to attract men of character, good education and courage to the post.

The Constitution Review Commission sits at Frankfort through this year and in 1950, the Governor will make recommendations regarding changes which have been found to be needed in our outmoded Constitution.

The Constitutional Convention will have, if it convenes, a tremendous task; but Kentucky will profit marvelously if it is rid of many binding restrictions to progress which cripple the State now, largely because we are so prone to cling to bygone customs and sentimental follies . . . such as the little old red schoolhouse and the backhouse which stood by it.

High Dams And Rockets

Residents of Lyon and Trigg counties, viewing with concern the suggested Cumberland River dam which will create another Kentucky Lake, inundate Eddyville and take from production forever a vast area of rich farm land, have the sympathy of some millions of persons in this country. Not mere mossbacks, either, intent on blocking progress, but sober minded and sincere citizens who fear that government planners, spurred by engineering and contracting firms with terrific overhead, will dam every stream in the U. S. if a halt is not called somewhere.

Lyon and Trigg residents are not the sole persons in the nation troubled about the future of their land. In New Mexico, we note in the Nogales, Ariz., Herald, published by former Madisonville citizen Hanson R. Sisk, the issue is cattlemen and their cattle range versus the army and the army's rocket testing grounds. New Mexico cattlemen oppose expansion of testing grounds near White Sands in the fear that 4,000,000 acres of grazing ground, providing a livelihood for 2,500 persons, may be taken over for proving grounds.

There are several angles to the situation, other than the defense angle. The dislocation of 2,500 persons is no small matter. And the nation is not in position to give up casually any substantial area of food-producing ground to military experiment which, however necessary, is unproductive so far as feeding and clothing our vast population is concerned.

Testing of rockets so far has been done for the most part on waste land, but he experimenters now want more room—more than is available in useless areas. As a matter of ordinary commonsense, it seems at this great distance, no productive land should be converted into a rocket range until the value of the experiments in mind from both the military and civilian standpoint, have been examined with great care by persons competent to weigh the issues involved.

Kentucky On The March

Making Kentucky The Pasture State

By Ewing Galloway

"He who makes two blades of grass grow in place of one renders a service to the State."

If Voltaire, who wrote the foregoing line back in the 18th century, were in Kentucky today he would see farmers making vast fields of grass grow where not a blade grew before.

In the 12 years since I came back to the State and went into farming as a sideline for the spiritual kick I might get out of reclaiming some of God's good earth and making grass and grain grow on it, the development of pastures all over the State has been phenomenal. And grassland farming will increase probably faster in the next decade or two than it has in the recent past.

In west Kentucky seed dealers are selling carloads of grass seed where ten years ago the were lucky if they sold a thousand pounds a year.

Legumes have increased in popularity as rapidly as grasses. Ten years ago Union county, which claims to be the foremost agricultural county in the state, sowed 500 pounds of sweet clover. A wholesaler told me the other day that the annual sowing now is around 60,000 pounds. Both river-bottom and upland farmers are using a mixture of sweet clover and lespedeza to build up their land and at the same time to make excellent pasture.

Here are popular pasture grasses listed in the order of importance:

Bluegrass: Most popular of all grasses.

Hardy, persistent and heavy yielding. Establishes a thick, though shallowrooted turf of limited drought-resisting ability. Responds quickly to fertilizer, particularly to nitrogen. Considered about three times as nutritious as any other grass for beef cattle.

Timothy: Though timothy has always been considered a hay grass, it forms an excellent, compact turf when pastured. Quick growing, easily established, tender and palatable if kept grazed.

Brome Grass: Smooth brome grass is rapidly becoming one of the most popular pasture grasses, especially in combination with alfalfa. When seeded alone it tends to become sod-bound or starved for nitrogen. That is why alfalfa teams up well with brome.

Sudan Grass: Sudan makes good summer pasture same season as sown. Relished by all livestock. Poisoning has sometimes been reported after severe drought or frost, but only in exceptional cases.

Red Top: Grows well under a great variety of conditions. The best wet-land tame grass. Red Top also does well on soils poor in lime. Its creeping habit of growth makes coarse, loose turf.

Orchard Grass: Grows in shade. Used for hay in regions where timothy does not do well. If seeded thick or with legumes, quality of hay is much improved. Makes good pasture early and late in season.

31 Fescue: Will grow on land too poor for other grasses. Makes winter grazing. Not high in feed value.

It is noted that the annual Clean-Up Week observance has been lengthened to a two-week period in some Kentucky cities and towns . . . and observation here indicates it would take much longer than that for everybody who wants painting done to have their desire satisfied. Our favorite painters began redecorating The Leader office two weeks ago . . . and haven't finished yet!

An old friend, now resident in Wilson, N. C., writes me anent a recent observation about kale greens in this column: You ought to know that jowl-and-greens means turnip greens. Yes, and I also am well aware that of all the things they ought to eat, my kids hate turnip greens most.

The Associated Press and the large daily newspapers of the State dealt almost completely around the recent District Rotary Convention at Frankfort and nothing appeared in print about Princeton's genial Mark Cunningham's high honor until the home town paper came out Thursday.

More than one-fourth of all standard band radio stations on the air in 1948 lost money, Chairman Wayne Coy, of the Federal Communications Commission, said recently. He sees television as the dominant medium of broadcasting in the future and believes it "an irresistible force". Investigation by Pennyrile disclosed there is no promise of profit in a radio station in Princeton, until it grows appreciably.

Moving the Veterans Hospital at Outwood to Louisville has been recommended by Dr. P. B. Magnuson, chief Veterans Administration director, with 17 other "isolated" institutions of the same kind going to other large centers. This would be a blow to Dawson Springs, economically.

We hate to admit it but some of the best read ads in the world are those printed on paper match books . . . wives doing the reading to keep up with their husbands' wanderings.

I see by the papers that Mr. Forrestal has "occupational fatigue"; and would like to ask what really busy adult male human hasn't?

Beau James, the new book about the late Mayor James Walker, of New York City, gives interesting sidelights for persons addicted to politics. Especially in point is the one about voters being more attracted by the personalities of their candidates than by the issues.

E. V. Durling, who doesn't like to see fat women in scanty bathing suits and play-pants wrote the following in his column: Round fat dames Shouldn't play games. Then an enraged feminine reader came back with this: Men with hairy chests Look better wearing coats and vests.

There has been quite a bit of discussion about the need of fertilizing with some of the minor elements such as magnesium, iron, manganese, sulfur, etc.

In 1948 three tests in different areas of the State were run using these minor elements under corn. The results of the tests showed no significant differences in the corn yields from addition of these elements as compared to corn yield on untreated areas.

As a result of these tests we would assume that farmers would not receive additional benefits from buying fertilizers containing these elements and applying them to their crops.

According to soil tests run on soil from a number of farms in the county it is doubtful that applications of additional potash fertilizers on a lot of farms in the county will give an increased benefit. Farmers who are thinking of using some additional potash should first have the soil tested to determine if there is a need for it.

The same fertilizer mixture of minor elements was used in six experiments in the State under Burley tobacco. The test showed practically no difference in quality or yield on treated and untreated areas.

THE GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

Beets, Carrots and Turnips

Beets, carrots and turnips are difficult to grow, judging from complaints about them. A general complaint is that they "grow to top" and make no roots worth while.

The fault is in their fertilizing, using too much manure, or using manure exclusively, or using manure that is fresh. Manure contains a great amount of nitrogen, compared with the other two plant foods, phosphorus and potash. But potash is the plant food that root crops most need. The remedy would be for the year to withhold manure from the rows where a root crops in grown. When fertilizer is used, it should be relatively high in potash, as 4-12-8 or 3-9-6.

Another complaint is low stand, particularly of beets. There the fault is planting too deep. What is not generally understood is that a beet "seed" is not a seed, but a seed pod, and the seeds are minute in size. To have beets come up in full stand, the seed furrows should be filled by crumbling soil lightly over the seed.

Another way to improve all three would be to do thinning. Especially is this true of carrots and turnips, as their seeds are small and sowing is too thick. As soon as the first true leaves put out, thinning should be done; for carrots, one inch, and for turnips and beets, 1½ inches.

The time of planting is as soon as a seed bed can be prepared. In handworked gardens, the rows may be as close as 18 inches. The varieties are Chantenay carrots, Crosby's Egyptian beets and Purple Strap-leaved turnips.

WOOD DRUG STORE

YOU BUY A GIFT OF SCIENCE

With the dollar or so you spend to have this prescription filled, you buy millions of dollars worth of research and the time and work of many men.

One of the ingredients of your prescription is a new drug that is particularly effective in overcoming skin infections. Its development a year or two ago was the crowning achievement of a decade of study by a group of research chemists in a midwestern laboratory.

Another ingredient, which likewise hinders germ growth, is a drug developed out of research that originated abroad. It, too, made headlines when its discovery was announced a few years ago.

The third ingredient is a new water-soluble ointment base that has the ability to penetrate tiny cracks and crevices of the skin.

Your pharmacist skillfully combines these ingredients . . . the new germicide, the drug from across the sea, and the water-soluble base. With the art that is his, he prepares a smooth, graceless ointment, following the prescription written by your physician.

In the finished prescription you purchase a truly priceless gift of science . . . the science of pharmacy, chemistry, and medicine that went into the research, development, and production of its ingredients.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit 32, Michigan.

Father-Son Plan Good Way To Keep Farm In Family

The Most Beautiful Thing on Wheels!

We are, of course, very proud and happy that people everywhere are calling the new Pontiac "the most beautiful thing on wheels." Pontiac is a brilliantly beautiful automobile—as handsome a car as ever rolled over America's streets and highways.

But Pontiac's real beauty cannot be fully appreciated until you drive the car yourself. For the new Pontiac is beautifully engineered, too—to give you a completely different kind of automobile performance that simply must be experienced in order to be believed.

Pontiac for 1949 offers a totally new kind of ride—a ride as smooth and effortless and comfortable as a car can be. And either of Pontiac's famous engines, six- or eight-cylinder, is a sweetheart for power. Remember, too, Pontiac is the lowest-priced car in the world offering the ease of Hydra-Matic Drive. Available on all models at extra cost.

Take a long look at the next new Pontiac you see—then come in and give the car a really thorough examination. That's the way really to appreciate why people are calling Pontiac "the most beautiful thing on wheels."

Rural Leaders To Meet May 3-5

Mrs. James D. Wyker, of Mount Vernon, Ohio, will be the principal speaker at the 12th annual Rural Leadership Institute at the University of Kentucky May 3 to 5. Mrs. Wyker is a native of Madison county, Kentucky, and has been an active church woman in many rural communities. She is president of the Ohio Council of Christian Women and was one of the eight delegates of the Disciples of Christ at the World Assembly of Churches at Amsterdam, Holland, last summer. "Stabilizing the Rural Community in an Unsettled World" is the theme of the institute. Emphasis will be placed on ways to make the local community a better place in which to live. Commisssions will address themselves to the subjects of "A Stable Economic Life," "A Revival of Religious values," "Strengthening the Rural Family" and "Community Education."

Barkley To Speak At UK Commencement

Vice President Alben W. Barkley will be principal speaker at the University of Kentucky's 82nd annual commencement exercises June 3. University President H. L. Donovan announced last week. It will mark the second time Mr. Barkley has addressed a graduating class of the University. In 1942, while Majority leader of the Senate, he delivered the commencement address, at which time he was awarded an honorary LL. D. degree.

He will tell the story of how his communities are successfully taking action.

The institute is sponsored by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, the Kentucky Rural Church Fellowship and the Kentucky Council of churches. No tuition or registration fee is charged and anyone interested in the rural community or church is invited to attend.

Other speakers include Miss Ida Hagman, Lawrence Bradford and John Given of the University of Kentucky and Dr. Homer Carpenter of Louisville. Kentucky ministers to take part include Rev. Robert G. McClure, Booneville; Rev. Fred H. DeJong, Gray Hawk; Rev. Robert L. Anderson, Pikeville; Rev. W. R. Laws, Buechel; Rev. Irvin Jaggars, Brownsville, and Rev. C. A. Nunery, North Pleasureville.

Recognition of the community services of several churches will be given at the annual

University's Oldest Employee Dies At 94

Pierre Whiting, for many years the University of Kentucky's oldest employee, died last week at his home in Lexington at the age of 94. He was retired four years ago after 57 years as janitor of several University buildings. Whiting could remember Civil War troops bivouacking on what is now the University campus. As a youth he carried water and mortar to workmen who were constructing the present Administration building, and only a few years after the building was completed in 1882 he became janitor. He was known to his fellow employees and to three generations of U. K. students as "The Dean."

Dog Rides Street Cars

Hanover, Germany—(AP)—"Lumpi", the dachshund, goes to work and comes home again every day with his master. But one recent evening he was missing. His owner searched in vain, went unhappily home alone. There was Lumpi waiting for him. Neighbors said they saw "Lumpi" get on the usual street-car, change to the correct car in the city center and get out at the right stop.

$4 An Acre Now Plowing Charge

The common charge for hiring land plowed in Kentucky is $4 an acre, and for disking, $1.50 an acre, according to a survey of 500 farmers made by the Department of Farm Economics of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. Where the land was reasonably level in the western part of the state the custom plowing rate was $3.50 an acre, while in eastern counties a rate of $5 an acre was not uncommon. To hire plowing done around cities costs more than in most sections of the state.

Farmers in eight counties reported an hourly rate of $2.50 to $3.85 for plowing, rather than an acre rate, with an average of about $3.20 an hour.

For disking one time over, the common rate was $1.50 an acre, with slightly higher rates in hill sections and around cities. Farmers in Grant, Garrard, Bracken, Campbell, Carroll, Pendleton and Scott counties reported disking rates of $1.60 to $2 an acre.

Nine counties had a disking charge of $2 to $4.30 an hour, with an average of $3 an hour as the usual custom rate.

Pasture Improved

Improved fertility Boosted corn yields in Livingston county from 25 bushels an acre in 1935 to 40 bushels in 1948. At the same time, the carrying capacity of pastures has been increased almost 100 percent.

"In other words," say County Agent Robert L. Rudolph, "where four acres were required to graze one animal in 1935, only two acres now are required."

Work to improve fertility will continue, the county agent said, and new kinds of grasses and legumes will be introduced further to improve pastures.

Army Award To UK

The University of Kentucky last week was presented a special Department of the Army citation for excellency in training ROTC personnel. State Adjutant General Roscoe L. Murray made the presentation at an Army Week ceremony that included a review of the entire UK cadet corps. Accepting the award on behalf of the University was President H. L. Donovan.

Letters To The Leader Editor

A number of years ago I was back in old Kentucky, "My Old Kentucky Home." I was in the First National Bank. Not knowing a soul in there, I asked if the president of the bank was in. "Yes; there he is. Can't you see him?"

Another time I was making a small purchase in a drug store. I set my little hand satchel on the floor. Hopping to see some one I knew passing, I stepped to the door. The clerk said to me: "Come back and get your baggage out of the way."
Again I was in Princeton and stepped into a harness shop to have a strap stitched, about a four minutes job. He saw I was a stranger. "Seventy-five cents, please."

Not many months ago I wrote to the county superintendent of schools and asked for the names of the newspapers published in
